Mature Audience ADVISORY Issued for Undressing the Feminine at Mindy Solomon Gallery

There is no gender identity behind the expressions of gender... identity is performatively constituted by the very 'expressions' that are said to be its results.

Judith Butler

Undressing the Feminine is a way to define the essence of womanhood. In the process of putting together the exhibition, we selected works that confront, question and embrace the nature of what it means to be female... or not. Some work exposes the the naked body, while others define metaphorically the “feminine mystique.”

“Gallery goers may find some of the works provocative, and a bit too challenging for younger viewers,” states Mindy Solomon, the shows curator. “We just want people to be prepared of what they'll be experiencing.”

This group exhibition includes the artists Connie Imboden, Sean Fader, Misty Gamble, Anne Drew Potter, Becky Flanders, J. Aiden Simon and Bonnie Seeman; they create work that explores the nuances and varying roles that define and re-examine female sexuality. Through a variety of media, such as clay and photography, each artist portrays different facets of what it means to be feminine in the 21st century. At times self referential, while at other times addressing more universal concerns, their artistic approaches range from the humorous to the profound.
